HISTORY OF RAYMOND

By ELIZABETH KING

THE SECOND FAMILY TO ARRIVE IN RAYMOND

Will Lamb, a young unmarried man of about 25 years of age left Farmington Utah, May 9, 1898 for Cardston where they landed June 15. He and his brothers came by wagon and horses over a rough wagon trail. Mr. Lamb walked most of the way. Later his sweet heart arrived in Cardston, and they were married January 9th, 1900.

On October 19, 1900 their first baby Floyd, was born. It was in the evening of September 4th, 1901, they arrived in Raymond and set up a tent south of town living there until their frame house was finished.

The first building contractors in town were C. W. Lamb and a company consisting of Rolfsens, Munns and Gibbs.

Mr. Lamb was the contractor and builder of Chas. McCarthy's store and hotel, King Bros., Massey Harris, Cooper and Lamb Hardware (on the sight of the Bob Graham business corner). He also built the Wm. Nalder home and others before going to work for Rogers and Cunningham.

Ben Stringham built the counters and shelving in King Bros. Store. When a small church with a heating plant was built by Jesse Knight with a little help from some members of the community, Will Lamb was the first man to put his hand in his pocket and pull out ten dollars as an offering to help. Others followed and Apostle John W. Taylor was reported to have said "Under the conditions the Lord is just as pleased with the ten dollar donations as a thousand."

Mr. Lamb was born in 1872 and is no doubt the only one in Raymond to claim the distinction of attending the first Primary under Aurella S. Rogers in 1878 the very first organization of a Primary in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Mr. Lamb was 6 years old at this time. Mrs. Dora Lamb was very active in church and town affairs. She was an officer in the Relief Society and was one of the first committee for "Old Folks Day". She was an energetic booster for a "Raymond 11-11 Holiday", a public watering trough and many other advancements for the new town. Mr. and Mrs. Lamb were the parents of eight children Floyd who resides at Vancouver B.C. and works on a boat there; Kate, (Mrs. Dewey Earnshaw) who resides in Salt Lake City; Norma (Mrs. Bill Minshall) living in Saskatchewan; Dean who is a carpenter and now lives in Calgary; Inez (Mrs. J.O. Hicken) Mr. Hicken is Bishop of the Raymond First Ward and Mrs. Hicken is the President of the Stake Primary; Lella (Mrs. Roy Finley) of Picture Butte; Maria (Mrs. Grant Smith) residing in Raymond.

THE THIRD FAMILY TO ARRIVE IN RAYMOND

Written by Hannah Gibb in 1932
Thirty one years ago today Men organized this town. The pioneers had come to stay And cultivate the ground. And William Knight was Bishop then A true and loyal friend, When anybody needed help To Bishop Knight they'd send. And there were Munns & Wm. Lamb Among the first on dot. They helped in making up the plan To lay the city out. Tom Mendenhall and Powelson John Two brave and honest lads, They came to work and carry on Without their mas and dads. I came here in 1901, The first to plant a tree If any had the tummy ache, They'd always call on me. And there were many other men I have not mentioned yet. Who helped the town to carry on I'm sure we won't forget Those men they plowed the loamy soil Then planted in their grain And they were paid for all their toil Because God sent them rain There were no cars or combines then Or radios to talk We had to do without all them We'd ride our steds or walk And there was not a treeslight

Or any R.R. near No telephones or electric lights But everybody worked with cheer And everything has come our way Our town is quite a size There's blessings coming every day We see them with our eyes The pioneers have worked since dawn They've bravely stood the test And now the young must carry on So pioneers may rest

According to an old diary of Hannah Gibb it was the 5th day of September when they landed in Raymond in a raging blizzard. That first night one of her cows had twin calves and both froze to death.

The Gibb family paid $140. for a railroad car to bring their possessions to Canada. Hannah Gibb and five children came on the train while four older sons came with the cattle.

The water at the Canada-U.S. line was infected with typhoid germ. Mrs. Gibb four sons drank it. It was not long before Frank came down with the dread disease and soon all four boys were stricken. As soon as the outside of the house was finished they moved in. (Hannah Gibb claims the distinction of being the first woman to live in a house in Raymond). For three months the poor third mother didn't go to bed so badly afflicted were her sick sons. "I would just rest my head beside the sick ones," she said.

Uncle Jesse Knight and his two sons, Ray and Will were very kind to her in her trouble, taking turns sitting up with the sick boys.

"Franks fever burned for 50 days when Apostle John Taylor came and blessed him, rebuking the disease." He began to improve and with careful nursing was soon back to health. There was no doctor in Raymond that first year but there were women and men always willing to give aid and counsel they had gained through practical experience, so the sick received the best of care it was possible to give. Sometimes the sick ones would ask for fasting and prayer in their behalf. Through the faith of the humble people of the community, together with the ministrations of the Elders of the Church, more often than not the sick ones would be healed. "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of. Wherefore let thy voice rise like a fountain for the night and day." Tennyson. Thomas Mendenhall relates how when a call came for help among the sick he would drive up to the Gibb home in a wagon loaded, inform mother Gibb she was needed and no matter how busy she was or how important her own home duties were her first thought was to drop her own work and go to the sick ones. Mrs. Gibb was both doctor and nurse until Dr. Rivers came, and then they were both busy. She brought hundreds of babies into the world and for them and their mothers for 10 days for $5, a case. In spite of conditions she never lost a case, many times she was called upon in the middle of the night to attend the sick out in the country in 40 below weather. Sometimes the driver would drive so fast she would have to hang on with all her might to keep from falling out. She was both doctor and nurse to fifty-seven of her sixty grandchildren. Her name will forever be honored by her children, her grandchildren and great grandchildren, as well as by many others who have learned the worth of such a noble woman. She was indeed an angel of mercy.

At this point many people of Raymond and district will recall another true angel of mercy, a woman who they considered the sick ones first. Unselfishly she gave of her time, her strength, her love and understanding and encouragement to those who needed her. Day and night in storm or sunshine, it mattered not to her as long as she could relieve suffering. More will be written of our beloved Betsy Dierden in another chapter.

Two Years Of Peace

THE WAR HAS NOW BEEN OVER for two years and we appear to be still far from attaining the security and the well ordered economy which so many people hoped would follow the final defeat of our enemies. Looking back, it must be admitted that perhaps there was too much optimism in regard to a rapid return to settled conditions, in view of the tremendous number of displaced persons, and the great havoc to homes and industries resulting from the methods of modern warfare. When the war in Europe ended, Mr. Churchill issued a warning which, like many of his messages, has often been recalled. At that time Mr. Churchill said: "We may allow ourselves a brief period of rejoicing, but let us not for a moment forget the toils and efforts which lie ahead."

Problems Remain Grave And Urgent

It soon became clear that Mr. Churchill's warning was not an idle one, for the problems of peace have indeed been as grave and urgent as those of war. In addition, there is the well-known fact that in peace there is not the unity of purpose and the driving determination which unites people who are threatened by a common enemy. It cannot be expected that the same spirit can be maintained when there is no longer the necessity for constant action such as there is in time of war, but it is increasingly clear that an apathetic attitude on the part of the people toward the problems of the present day, will not lead to an enduring peace. During the war there were few people who were not familiar with daily developments in the news, for the progress of the fighting was of vital concern to everyone.

Leaders Need More Support

It should be fully realized now that the framing of the peace treaties and the deliberations of the foreign ministers when they meet may have the most far-reaching effects on the lives of the people here and in every country. It is extremely doubtful, however, whether they do arouse the interest they should and whether the leaders who must settle the tremendous problems of the day, have behind them the force of united and determined public opinion which could be a real factor in building a better world. Against the pessimism of these times there stands the United Nations Organization, which is a monument to the ideals for which the war was fought, and which is working steadily to establish the understanding and trust among people which are essential to world peace. Two years is a short time in which to accomplish the ideals toward which the U.N.O., is working. Suspicion and prejudice are deeply rooted in the human race, and it will take many years of patient effort to break them down, but with effort and determination it can be done. Apathy and cynicism will not help to build a finer world.

New Mexico Indian Reported To Have Lived For 137 Years

RUIDOSO, N.M. — Out of this southern New Mexico mountain resort country came the story of a Navajo Indian, Francisco Saiz, reputed to be 137 years old—and possibly the oldest living human being in North America.

The account came from a reporter, Mary Nell Taeger of the Ruidoso Weekly News, who interviewed Saiz and said she was convinced of his age.

She found Saiz living on a small farm near out-of-the-way Arabela, N.M., 40 miles northeast of here.

The old man makes his home with Simon Sanchez, 74, who related that his family first became acquainted with Saiz as a middle-aged man in the 1860s. The Navajo has been a family retainer since, serving Sanchez' mother until her death at 115 and remaining thereafter with the son.

Still active enough to get about with a cane, Saiz attends to all his personal needs and eats three meals a day with his third set of natural teeth.

"Too many people who have known him long years say this age is correct for there to be any mistake," Miss Taeger said.

MUSIC

Music is the harmonious voice of creation; an echo of the invisible world; one note of the divine concord which the entire universe is destined one day to sound.—Mazzini.

Music resembles poetry; in each are nameless graces which no methods teach. And where a master-hand alone can reach.—Pope.

The direct relation of music is not to ideas, but to emotions—in the works of its greatest masters, it is more marvelous, more mysterious than poetry.—Henry Giles.

Although the spirit be not master of that which it creates through music, yet it is blessed in this creation, which, like every creation of art, is mightier than the artist. —Beethoven.

Music is the harmony of being; but the music of Soul affords the only strains that thrill the chords of feeling and awaken the heart's harp-strings.—Mary Baker Eddy.

The language of tones belongs equally to all mankind, and melody is the absolute language in which the musician speaks to every heart.—Richard Wagner.

327-Year-Old Violin Found Worth $4,500

GALESBURG, Ill.—A lawyer, R. L. Stewart, said a violin he thought was worth $3.50 brought an offer of $2,500 and he may get $4,500 for it.

Stewart, representing the estate of the late Louise Ware, 80, of Victoria, Ill., a one-time music teacher, sent an old violin found among her effects to a Chicago music instrument company for an appraisal "just to play safe".

The company said the instrument had been made by Antonius & Hieronymus Amati in Cremona, Italy, in 1620. The firm offered to pay $2,500 for it.

The lawyer said he had been told the instrument eventually might bring $4,500.

Ticks Cause Invasion Of Moose

QUESNEL, B.C.—Wood ticks are believed to be responsible for an invasion of moose in Quesnel. A number of moose have been reported roaming the outlying sections and a few have entered the town.

Mrs. C. H. Allison was startled while working in her garden when a bull moose crashed through the brush just behind her and disappeared.

Hunters said there has been an epidemic of wood ticks and the animals are apparently being driven to distraction by the pests.

COVER BURNS

First-aid treatment of burns consists in covering the affected area and keeping it covered until competent medical attention is obtained. Burns are sterile when sustained, but they may become infected by careless handling immediately afterwards. National Health authorities advise—do not attempt to alleviate pain by applying an ointment. Only sterilized dressings, such as a doctor will apply, should be used, and first-aiders are urged not to remove clothing or expose the burned surface meanwhile.

EATS FOR THE FIRST TIME IN 16 YEARS — According to Jack Parks, of Orem, Utah, eating is "about the most wonderful thing in this world." Parks, who hasn't been able to eat or drink for 16 years, is shown being served milk by Nurse Claudia Sergeant at the Illinois Research hospital in Chicago. When Jack was 20 months old he swallowed some lye. He has received all nourishment until now via a tube through the abdominal wall into his stomach. Although Parks' diet is now confined to liquids, doctors say in a few months he will be able to eat solids.

"He sat mauling over his cup of coffee and mulling sheep's eyes at the pretty waitress, until she was fed up. 'Is there anything else you would like, sir?' she asked distantly."

"Just a soft word," he sighed. "Putty," replied the waitress, as she whisked the cup and saucer off the table and tripped away.

Canadian Exhibits At British Fair Draw Inquiries

LONDON.—The Canadian exhibition at the British Industries' Fair here is drawing 52 "serious" inquiries daily from continental buyers, A. E. Bryan, Canadian commercial counselor at Canada House, said.

"These are inquiries from buyers who want newsprint, timber, chemicals, machinery—virtually everything we have to sell," he said in an interview at a reception at which Canadian trade commissioners in the United Kingdom were represented.

In addition, Bryan said, five British manufacturers a day were asking about the possibilities of exhibiting at the Canadian International Fair planned for 1948.

The Canadian Exhibition at the British Industries' Fair consists of "institutional" advertising boosting Canada as a producing country, but not accepting orders for specific commodities.

CANADA SPENDING SEVEN TIMES MORE ON RESEARCH THAN IN 1939

TORONTO.—The Canadian Government "is spending on research over seven times as much as she did in 1939," Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, president of the National Research Council, Ottawa, told the Engineering Institute of Canada recently.

"While in engineering our facilities for graduate work on the doctorate level are still limited, there are today a considerable number of scientifically-trained engineers doing research work and the number is growing daily," said Dr. Mackenzie in an address at the institute's annual banquet. "Altogether, I feel confident about the future of Canadian industry and Canadian engineering."

He felt that the application of science for the use and convenience of mankind is still very much in its youth and that the young graduate of today can look forward to a life of professional adventure as exciting as any generation has known.

The approximately 1,500 undergraduate engineering students in the four to five faculties of applied science in Canadian universities in 1910 had grown to more than 10,000 today. More than one-third of the National Research Council scientific research staff were engineers. The outlook for the profession looked bright.

Buck Stayed By Doe Dying From Injuries

ST. CATHARINES, Ont.—Mournful calls penetrating the spring air one morning recently started investigation by number of farmers in the Ridgeway area. In a field nearby they found a full grown buck bellowing in funeral tones over the body of a deer lying on the ground. The farmers approached cautiously and discovered the doe had been seriously injured. They called Provincial Constable Elmer Hoath to the scene and while they waited the buck strayed not a foot from his mate. Constable Hoath examined the injured animal and diagnosed the trouble as a painful and serious back injury. He thought the doe had probably been struck by a car some hours earlier. As the mournful cries of the buck had been heard for some hours it is assumed that he had stood guard over the writhing body of his mate all that time. There was only one thing to do and the officer did it. He administered the Coup de Grace with a merciful revolver shot. Only then did the buck, who seemed to know he had been deprived of his mate in the mating season, leave her side and with solemn majesty walk away.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

INSPIRATION

By MAUDE NORMAN

MARY STARR finished putting the dishes away, took off her apron and went out to the front porch. She glanced anxiously toward where the bright top of her husband's cigarette showed in the darkness.

"It gets dark earlier now, doesn't it," she remarked.

She tried again. "Anything interesting happen today?"

James threw his cigarette over the railing. "Oh, sure, I had a very interesting day," he mocked. "As usual I took the seven-thirty-five to town. I sold, or tried to sell suits. I took the six-thirty home as I have for the last six years. I walked down the same street, past houses so much alike I have to count them to be sure I turn in the right one. I ate hash and bread-pudding. Tomorrow night it will be stew or beans. Oh, yes, I had a very interesting day."

Mary listened in silence. She knew what he said was true. Somewhere along the way they had lost the star that makes labor for loved ones a joy. But where?

"Perhaps if you started writing again you might sell something," she ventured.

"Write," he snorted. "I'm so tired at night I don't have an idea in my head. I do the same thing day in and day out, world without end, amen, and you think I can write. Write about what?"

He went into the house, slamming the door.

A few tears stole down Mary's cheeks. She had failed. All the high hopes she had entertained when they were married of being an inspiration to a promising young author were gone. Two babies demanded a lot of care and attention. James had to do work he despised to provide for them.

"Perhaps he does still love me," she thought. "But he is used to me. He needs something exciting to happen. Something to stir him up. He needs romance and I'm about as romantic as an old shoe. I can't give him romance—or can I?"

James came to the door. "Come on in," he said gruffly. "I'm sorry for what I said. It's hard on you, too, having a failure for a husband."

The next morning Mary raced through her work, washed and dressed the baby, settled three-year-old Shirley in the sand-box to play, then got out her typewriter.

Two days later James received a letter, a delicately scented missive that Mary handed to him without a word.

"Dear Mr. Starr," the letter began. "About seven years ago I was confronted with a serious problem that in story of yours, 'Stella's Solution', helped me to solve successfully. I should have written and thanked you then, only that I knew how men in your position are deluged with letters."

I suppose you wonder why I am writing now, but in looking over some old magazines that came in for the veterans hospital I found a poem of yours, entitled 'Spring'. It made such an impression on me, that I am obeying an impulse and am writing to tell you, that with your insight into human nature and your great understanding you must have helped hundreds as you have helped me. Thank you for myself and for them.

Sincerely,

Justine Owen."

James did not show the letter to Mary and she asked no questions. No more letters came to the house, although she knew he had answered. He began writing every evening, re-typing and sometimes rewriting the stories he had written and laid aside. Shortly after sending out his first story a check came for twenty-five dollars, not much, but enough to encourage him.

Mary rejoiced at the change in him, especially after he sold two more stories, until one day, going through the pockets of a suit she was sending to the cleaners, she found a note.

"Darling! There I have said it and say it again. Darling! I love you. Does that seem strange? But why should it? Your letters, carefully worded though they are, tell me you love me too. Name a place where I can meet you. Your postoffice address makes you seem so far away."

You mentioned responsibilities. In all this world there are only two things that matter. You, and the fact that I love you and will love you forever. You are my inspiration. Hopefully,

James"

James found Mary unusually silent that evening. Although he tried to interest her in the day's happenings, she busied herself feeding the children and barely answered him. After the dishes were washed and the children in bed, he lay laid her at the foot of the stairs.

"I sold another story," he said. "Looks like I can write after all." "That's nice," she answered briefly, trying to pass him.

"Aren't you glad?" "Of course I am." "Then what's the matter?"

Mary handed him the note she had found in his pocket. "I wasn't snooping," she said. "I found this when I emptied the pockets of your grey suit when I sent it to the cleaners."

James took the note. "I was hoping you would find it pretty soon," he grinned.

Mary burst into tears. "You heartless thing," she sobbed. "I know I'm no beauty and I've worn myself to a frazzle, taking care of your children and your home, but to have you tell another woman you love her, and stand there and grin about it! Well, I hate you, James Starr. You're a beast, that's what you are so there!"

"Well, I like that. I write you a lovely letter, telling you how much I love you and you call me a beast."

"WHAT?"

"I hope you don't think I'm as dense as I appeared to be. Oh, at first I fell for it. Long enough to tell a story and get a little self-confidence. Then I became curious to see the lady who wrote such lovely letters. A trip or two to the post office soon showed me she was someone I knew very well indeed. I kept up the writing gag, though, because I knew you enjoyed it."

And you don't think I'm silly, do you? I only wanted to give you a

Prairie Command Announces Army Plans For Summer Camps

WINNIPEG, Man.—Soldiers of Reserve Force units in Prairie Command will attend Army summer camps at Shilo, Man., and Dundurn, Sask., during July, it was announced here by military authorities.

"The aim this year," said Brigadier M. H. S. Penhale, C.B.E., General Officer Commanding, Prairie Command, "is for quality, not quantity. He said it would eliminate hit or miss methods in production and distribution and recurrent cycles of booms and depression.

Irrigation Plans For The West

MEDICINE HAT.—Formulation of plans which it is hoped will lead to increased irrigation throughout western Canada, with a resultant rise in productivity of the land, was discussed here at a meeting which saw the birth of a new reclamation association for western Canada.

At present taking in only Alberta and Saskatchewan the organization will hold another meeting in Lethbridge July 11-12 at which Manitoba and British Columbia will be invited to participate.

Concerned with seeing that farmers can produce crops under as favorable conditions as possible, the association's main objective will be to strive for extensive irrigation throughout regions in the west where proper water channeling can greatly increase output.

The need for an organization which can effectively work towards increased soil fertility was indicated recently through statistics by Dr. A. G. McCalla of the University of Alberta. He said that during the period stretching from 1921 to 1943 drought struck southeastern Alberta 50 per cent. of the time.

Through proper irrigation it has been estimated that drought years can be eliminated and farmers, through selective crops, can greatly increase the income they would be making even in normal years.

Instead of grossing approximately $20 an acre from a dry land wheat crop farmers could gross between $120 and $360 an acre on watered land raising vegetable canning crops and from $125 to $225 raising sugar beet crops.

L. B. Thomson, superintendent of the Swift Current, Sask., Experimental Farm, said that the association "will do the trick" in providing farmers with necessary security during periods which normally would be drought years.

He described the main problem as water conservation, not soil conditions. "It takes two inches of water to grow one bushel of grain."

MY WEEK

by R. J. Deaebman

There has been a row about the price of chocolate bars. They now sell at 8 cents each—5 cents was the pre-war price. Many people are angry about it.

The annual report of Rowntree and Company, Ltd.,

British manufacturers of chocolate products is a rather interesting story. It shows how costs have risen.

"A two-ounce block of plain chocolate", states the report, "had in 1939, an ingredient cost of 38.7 s. per cwt. The new 1947 ingredient price will be 135s. per cwt. an increase of 263s. per cwt. All other costs including wages, salaries, packing materials, delivery, selling, and administration of this story. When raw materials were 51.7s per cwt. in 1939, and more than double in price we have 51.7s per cwt in 1947, an increase of only 2.8s. per cwt. That small increase includes the effect of considerable reductions in distribution costs."

"This sensational increase in the price of cocoa and the great increase in the price of sugar will cause the 2 oz. block of chocolate to be sold later this year at fifty 100 per cent above the pre-war price."

Now let me speak to rational men and women. They can then convey this story to their children, they ought to know what happened. The war stimulated demand. Chocolates were sent in huge quantities to the soldiers. So the price of cocoa beans from which chocolate is made and the price of other raw materials which enter into the making of chocolate went up. The price of chocolate bars rose and, in addition, the government imposed a one cent tax on chocolate bars.

The local merchant who sells these chocolate bars for 8 cents had nothing whatever to do with the price increase. Neither had the wholesaler. What about the manufacturer? The answer is in the third paragraph of this story. When raw materials to pay more for the finished product. What can be done about it? There is very little that can be done. It is a condition which can be remedied only by time. Higher prices will reduce demand. This will affect the price of raw materials. The one cent tax might be removed but the government needs money—the cost of government has also gone up. Even if the tax were removed it would have to be imposed in some other place.

There are some who will say that the profits of the manufacturer could be cut but the producer, in a time of rising prices, faces a real problem. It is a time of high demand. Naturally he desires to sell as much as possible. The volume of raw materials on hand has to be quite large. A sharp drop in prices means a loss on stocks in hand—in other words shrinkage in inventory values. This means a heavy loss to manufacturers.

If a period of deflation takes place it means a sharp contraction in business. In all these questions the consumer has the final word. He in the end determines the price. Today it may be a sellers market but the consumers turn will come. All this is quite clear to those who remember the past and look forward to the future.

I quote again from the report. I have previously cited. It shows that the manufacturer understands that he should like to see a change in conditions but there is little he can do about it.

Substantial Rewards Paid In Search For "Empties"

Substantial rewards have been paid to Albertans who were successful in apprehending E. B. Bottles, alias "Empties". It was announced today by authorities at Deliveries Ltd., agents for the Brewing Industry from where Bottles escaped work.

During the past month, rural and urban residents have co-operated in an intensified search for Bottles, investigating the culprits favored hide-outs such as basement corners and wall closets. Deliveries Limited paid rewards of 20 cents per dozen to persons apprehending the fugitive and returning Bottles to their custody.

The escape of the fugitive from essential work in the brewing industry was regarded as serious, with Bottles now back on the job, the industry expects to be able to maintain its normal output. However Deliveries Ltd., while reporting success in the current campaign, asks citizens to continue to keep a sharp outlook and warned that Bottles may attempt another escape and again return to favored hiding places.

WORLD HAPPENINGS

BRIEFLY TOLD

An Amazon blue-fronted parrot which speaks French and English has reached the London zoo.

Canada's wartime aid to Britain, including cash, goods assigned and debt cancellation, totalled $3,537,000,000.

Experts from most of the world's leading commercial airlines will hold "safety talks" in Nice, on the French Riviera, Sept. 1.

The German news agency, Dena, reported that the United States is now feeding more than 100,000 Bavarian children daily.

More than 45,000 members of Polish Underground organizations have given themselves up under the political amnesty.

Shortage of rice in India will continue throughout 1947 with less available for export in the last half of the year than during the current six months.

Five men were killed and seven injured in a fight which broke out between two families in the village of Rabayna, upper Egypt, over a debt of 20 cents.

Field Marshal Sir Cyril John Deverell, 72, one of Britain's outstanding tacticians of the First Great War, died recently at his home in Lymington, Hants, England.

Digby Bull, 31-year-old salesman canvasses a territory of 980 square miles in Western Australia. He travels by air, piloting his own plane with his wife as navigator.

Tourists Do Not Like British Coffee

LONDON.—The Government confessed that Britons do not know how to make coffee for foreign palates.

Dr. Edith Summerskill, parliamentary spokesman for the Food Ministry, said under a barrage of questions in the House of Commons:

"I appreciate that coffee, as prepared in this country, is not to the liking of overseas visitors."

Members of Parliament had expressed concern because of the expected influx of American tourists. Tom Driberg, Labor, had asked her if she wouldn't instruct the country's cooks in the fine art of brewing coffee.

The smartly-groomed Dr. Summerskill referred one and all to the Ministry's widely-circulated "The ABC of Cooking", which gives four ways of making coffee.

One is called the "warm jug" method:

"Warm the jug. Add coffee and salt. Pour in boiling water and stand in a warm place for about 15 minutes. It is a good plan to stand the jug in a saucepan of boiling water. Stir the coffee and let it settle again. Strain if necessary, but do not boil. For straining, use a very fine coffee strainer or a piece of fine muslin."

India, less than half the area of Canada, has more than 30 times the population. (389,000,000 in 1941). One of every five persons in the world is an Indian.

SECOND FRONT—Samuel Merlin, (above), secretary-general of the Hebrew committee of national liberation, is shown at the special press conference in the United Nations building at Flushing Meadows, N.Y., when he predicted that the displaced Jews of Europe will open a "second front" and begin an exodus to Palestine in support of the Jewish underground forces now active in the Holy Land.

Helpful Hints To Sheep Shearers

As a means of increasing the yield of high-grade wool, great care should be taken when the sheep are being shorn. By following the recommendations of the National Sheep Committee for handling fleece wool at shearing, the yield and profits may be increased through the prevention of damp, wet, and dirty wool appearing in the clip.

- These recommendations are:
- Shear on a clean floor and avoid second cuts. In the case of sizeable range flocks, the holding pens should have slatted floors.
  - Keep all short, hairy leg and face clippings away from the fleece. If there is any quantity of these clippings pack them separately in a small sack.
  - Spread fleece, flesh side down, on a slatted table or on a clean surface.
  - Remove all tugs, dung locks or muddy bellies. Pack separately.
  - Remove any bellies that are very burry, chaffy or strawy and also any other such badly affected fleece parts. Pack separately.
  - Fold fleece twice from one side to bring back portion uppermost. Roll from britch to neck. Tie each fleece with one strand of paper twine. Never use hinder or other sisal twine.
  - Any reject fleeces or fleece portions such as black, dead or damaged should be packed separately.

LARGEST SLATE MINE

The largest slate mine in the world, situated in Merionethshire, Wales, has been worked for one hundred and thirty-five years. The blue-grey slates from this mine go to all parts of the world.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN ASKS PILGRIMAGE TO SOLDIERS' GRAVES

WASHINGTON.—President Truman suggested a pilgrimage by next-of-kin to visit the overseas graves of the Second World War heroes of the United States and see for themselves "that their dead shall rest in dignity and honor."

Some will want their dead brought home, he said, to lie in their native soil. And their wishes will be respected.

"I feel sure, however," he said in a statement, "that if they could see the care which is devoted to those who died in the First World War, and to the temporary cemeteries in which their own dead lie buried today, many of the next-of-kin would prefer that their loved ones should rest forever in the countries where they fell."

"I believe, therefore, that our government should make possible a pilgrimage to the permanent cemeteries overseas."

HISTORICAL FAIRS

Modern agricultural fairs in America date from colonial times when farmers put their products on display in market towns, primarily for sale.

Principal Indian exports are jute, cotton, hides, and skins, mica, manganese, tea and oil-seeds.

PROPER COOKING RETAINS FOOD VALUES

In these days of climbing food costs, wise homemakers know that correct cooking methods are as important as proper food selection and good meal planning.

Many of the food values present in raw food can be lost before that food reaches the table unless particular care is taken in preparation and cooking. For instance—

Do not soak vegetables before cooking.

If you must pare vegetables, pare thinly and cook immediately after paring.

If you must pare fruit, pare thinly, and immediately prior to eating.

Cook vegetables as quickly as possible.

Avoid overcooking—cook until just barely tender.

Steam vegetables rather than drown them in water. Put them in

BRAN BROWN BREAD AND BAKED BEANS INSEPARABLE TEAM—It just seems that baked beans and Bran Brown Bread are a team of foods that go together. Especially, it is a good filling combination for a spring supper, when the children plan to have their friends stay to eat with the family. This is a good basic menu, plus a big green salad and a hot vegetable, and a fruit dessert, if there is any room left! Bran Brown Bread has high nutritional value, because it contains bran, raisins and molasses, all excellent sources of iron so necessary for building good, rich blood.

Steam Bran Brown Bread

1 cup All-Bran 1/2 cup light molasses
1/2 cup raisins 1 cup sifted flour
3/4 cup buttermilk or sour milk 1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt

Combine bran, raisins, buttermilk and molasses. Sift flour with soda and salt; add to first mixture, stirring only until flour disappears. Fill greased cans two-thirds full; cover tightly and steam for three hours. Yield: 2 loaves (4 1/2 inch cans, 2 3/4 inches in diameter).

GHOST BEHAVES LIKE A GENTLEMAN

PENCAITLAND, EAST LOTHIAN, Scotland.—The Society for the Recording of Abnormal Happenings is to investigate the behavior of the "ghost of a perfect gentleman" which haunts Penknet castle here.

Mrs. Holbourn says that when she and her husband first went to live in the 16th-century house, they were often disturbed by the sound of heavy footsteps and the sound of something "heavy and soft" being dragged along the floor.

"As time went on," she told reporters, "the sounds became trivial and playful, and sometimes when there was a light continuous tapping my husband would call out: 'Now, John, that's childish, stop it!'"

"Then the sound invariably ceased and we called the ghost the 'perfect gentleman'."

She said John Cockburn was the name of a former owner of the castle "who came to a tragic end", but did not give details of his death.

boiling water which does not quite cover them and cook them in a tightly covered saucepan. Where spinach is concerned, no water is needed other than the moisture on the leaves after washing.

Save the water in which vegetables are cooked and use in cream sauces, gravies and soups.

Never add soda to cooking vegetables. It may preserve the color but it destroys the vitamins.

Try to cook the right amount for each meal. This avoids waste and resultant expense. Also, storing and reheating causes loss of vitamins.

GETS NEW TRIAL—Sidney George Chambers, 34, sentenced to hang June 6 for the murder of Mariaa Rusnak, nine, at St. Catharines, Ont., last December, has been granted a new trial in a judgment handed down by the court of appeal in Toronto. Father of an eight-year-old girl, Chambers was arrested Jan. 1 and charged with the murder of the Rusnak girl, who disappeared two days before Christmas while carrying home a toy drum for her brother. She was last seen by a neighbor, who told police she saw the child walking down the street with a tall slim man.
